Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

Canadian University Press is a national, non-profit co-operative that was formed in 1938. Their mandate is to unite, strengthen and support the Canadian student press. It is owned and operated by student newspapers across Canada, and is a vehicle by which those newspapers exchange stories and ideas. Although once English only, it is now a bilingual organization: its French language branch is Presse universitaire canadienne. It provides a news wire service comprised of original content (contributed by member papers and CUP staff), a graphics exchange, a national advertising agency, resource material, a style guide, listservs, membership newsletters, and various employment, internship, mentorship and networking opportunities, as well as discounted conferences. Content is edited by the national bureau chief, and is then made available for publication in member papers. The annual conference also constitutes the annual general meeting.

Canadian University Press is divided into six regions: WRCUP (Western, including B.C. and the Yukon); PNCUP (Prairies and Northern, including Alberta, Manitoba, Northwest Territories, Nunavut and Saskatchewan); ORCUP (Ontario); CUPbeq (Quebec); ARCUP (Atlantic, including New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Labrador, Nova Scotia and P.E.I.); and PUC (Presse universitaire canadienne, including all French language members, regardless of geography).

Scope and content

This fonds consists of 20 series that contain textual, graphic and audio material encompassing all aspects of the organization and its activities and records. They are as follows: National conferences, News service, Feature service, Atlantic region of Canadian University Press, Western Region of Canadian University Press, House organ, Subject files, Graphics exchange, Campus Plus, Quebec Region of Canadian University Press, Ontario Region of Canadian University Press, Youthstream, CUP history, John H. McDonald Foundation, National executive, Newspapers, Ephemera, Videocassettes, Audio cassettes, and Discs.

Series descriptions

Series CAUP-1: National conferences

Date: 1953-2010 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

This series consists of Canadian University Press annual national conference documentation, including reports, minutes, delegate binders, newsletters and working papers from 1953-2010 as well as audio cassettes from CUP annual national conferences from 1984-1985 to 2002-2003. Material from CUP's summer school program is also included, as well as copies of the "CUP primer". Other ancillary conference documentation includes general administrative files and correspondence, staff questionnaires, post-conference surveys, financial reports, and national journalism summit material.

Physical description: *1.5 m of textual records
*218 audio cassettes

Note:

The majority of the cassettes do not contain any information as to running times. Files 141-145 are not labelled with any conference numbers or dates.

Series CAUP-6: House organ

Date: 1966-1999 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

This series consists of textual material comprising the internal newsletter of Canadian University Press, titled: "House organ", and served as a primary form of communication between the national office and the membership, as well as between the members themselves, whose contributions were included. Produced periodically (frequency varies), it contains brief itemized details of all aspects of CUP policies, news, business, reports and other developments. Issues range from September 1967-September 1999.

Series CAUP-9: Campus plus

Date: 1969-2013 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

Campus plus was an advertising placement agency owned by Canadian University Press. It was established by CUP in 1981 under the auspices of Canadian University Press Media Services Limited, and ceased operations in 2013, when it declared bankruptcy. It was created as an advertising co-op for the Press, offering advertisers a single venue for accessing member papers. This series consists of textual records comprising the history and activities of Campus plus, including: board of directors' meeting minutes and reports; planning, standards and policy documents; sales and research reports; surveys; business plans; correspondence with member papers (including boycott campaigns); financial reports; and communications documents regarding initiatives.
